

Need a new lunch spot when visiting the Pacific Market Center? Look no further than Skillet Street Food, which will start service in the 1st floor café at Pacific Market Center on Monday, July 20. Made famous for serving Seattle's neighborhoods gourmet street food from a shiny airstream trailer, Skillet is excited to start servicing breakfast and lunch to the Pacific Market Center Community every Monday and Tuesday from 9am-3pm. Hours will be extended from 8am-4pm on show days.

The café menu will include a continental-style breakfast with fresh pastries, Stumptown coffee and espresso, and a seasonal scramble, while lunch tempts with an array of sandwiches and salads, plus daily specials and seasonal frescas.

In addition to serving impeccably executed and seasonably relevant bistro-style food at our permanent location at the Pacific Market Center and a new walk-up window at 4th Ave. S. & S. Main St. in downtown Seattle, Skillet will continue to send its fleet of restored Airstream trailers outfitted with full commercial kitchens out to selected Seattle and Bellevue neighborhoods to serve breakfast and lunch on daily basis. Skillet also caters company picnics, weddings, and local events, plus will begin box lunch delivery in the coming month.

To learn more about Skillet Street Food, visit: www.skilletstreetfood.com. Questions and comments can be directed to Adrienne Carmin at adrienne@skilletstreetfood.com.

We look forward to seeing you at the PMC Café!